

The image features a dark, abstract, and textured illustration of a human torso, possibly a heart, rendered in a style reminiscent of a charcoal or ink drawing. The figure is set against a light, textured background. A white banner with a black outline is draped across the lower half of the figure. The text on the banner is written in a simple, black, sans-serif font. The overall composition is vertical and expressive, with splatters and layered textures in shades of black, red, and blue.

Let it beat for someone else